

AFLA Quarterly on “Africa and International Justice: After Kampala”

Do you want to get an insight into the First Review Conference of the International Criminal Court, and its specific implications for Africa? Then get your copy of Africa and International Justice: After Kampala HERE!

In addition to groundbreaking contributions from the International Criminal Court's President Judge Sang-Hyun Song and from a Proponent and Opponents of the Crime of Aggression, this edition of the AFLA Quarterly features a landmark interview with Fatou Bensouda, the Gambian-born Deputy Prosecutor of the ICC.

Evelyn Ankumah speaks to her about whether she would go for the top job after Prosecutor Ocampo's tenure ends. As well, Ankumah probes about whether Africa is a Participant or Target of International Justice; Obstacles posed by the African Union to the ICC; and the Al Bashir Arrest Warrant...Click here for the full interview!
